SUNDARBAN MAHAVIDYALAYA

KAKDWIP, SOUTH 24 PARGANAS, 743347

Preface

It is on and from this day in the year 1950 that our constitution, the most intricate and elaborate document of its kind in the entire world, was adopted and deemed effective. This year would also bear witness to the much-awaited 75th anniversary of our independence. India is indubitably the most complex democracy the world has ever seen, offering a melting pot of so many cultures and races and ethnicities and languages and literatures and religions and food habits and ways of life, and it is for this reason that our challenges have also been the most complicated ones. We've made tremendous progress despite all hurdles and most importantly, true to our republican ethos, we have progressed along with our enormous population. Our country does not represent simply a topographic location, a landmass with an internationally-accepted borderlines; India is a nation, a people united with a singleness of purpose emerging out of mind-boggling diversity. India is emotion. India is what we all are.

Our beloved institution is going to be 57-year-old as well, and what a wonderful, enticing, exciting journey it has been all these years! Sundarban Mahavidyalaya, the treasured brainchild of a few persistent visionaries like the unforgettable Sri Hangsadwaj Dhara who was the founder, has consistently grown along with the community, and has always considered itself to be a part of it, and never apart from it! There will be challenges and obstacles as there have always been, but there will also be minds and hearts willing to face them, to come up with intelligent and relevant solutions, as there have always been. A nation is only as good as its people, and the only thing that prepare a responsible citizen, a good human being is learning and edification. We owe it to our great nation and its people to respect their faith in the education system and consider it our ethical obligation to remain firmly committed to our duties and responsibilities as an institution of higher learning. May our nation prosper and reach hitherto unimaginable heights. Jai Hind.

From the Principal's Desk:

It gives me great pleasure to congratulate everyone on the momentous occasion of the 73rd anniversary of the Republic Day for our beloved motherland, and what makes this even more significant is the fact that this year we would also celebrate the 75th anniversary of our independence from the British colonial rule. Our independence in 1947 and the formal adoption of the constitution in 1950 were watershed moments for our nation and we must never forget the extent to which our forefathers toiled and sacrificed to realize the dream of an independent, confident, peaceful, prosperous, pluralistic republic which would be a manifestation of the collective dream of so many people. We are so diverse and yet so committed to the realization of that ideal democratic union that cares for all, and is, in turn, cared for by all.

This year also marks the 57th anniversary of the foundation of Sundarban Mahavidyalaya, our beloved college. I was appointed to this chair in 2021 and within this short timespan I have come to love this institution. Located near the remote Sundarban areas of West Bengal, our institution has stood quite a few challenges of the same nature that our nation has faced. We've had to move forward with a demographic that has been at the mercy of underdeveloped financial mechanisms, absence of proper infrastructural frameworks and most importantly, a belligerent nature that wreaks havoc during the cyclone season and the monsoons. Despite all that, the collective willpower of the people remains triumphant; – a steadfast commitment to ensure enduring welfare for the community has been demonstrated by all who have been and continue to be associated with this institution, and that is so refreshing, so rejuvenating!

I have taken the opportunity of proposing the formal publication of this digital calendar– a way of distinguishing this year which is going to be so eventful and exciting for all of us! I congratulate everyone on this great occasion; this I construe as a moment when we try and realize the greatest responsibility that our nation has so graciously entrusted us with– educating our own people, making our children worthy citizens of our great country. Nothing could be more meaningful and consecrated than that. Jai Hind.

From the Desk of the IQAC Co-ordinator:

It is a matter of great honour to be addressing from this chair, and what makes this an even more significant occasion is of course the 73rd Republic Day. A nation becomes great only when every stakeholder chips in any way s/he can and the way we can contribute to the nation-building is by doing what we can do, and that is disseminating education the best way we can. We feel privileged as well that we are able to do what we love, and serve the nation and our people in terms of what is incontestably one of the most important aspects of sociometric development.

What defines our workload is not only the requirement of keeping ourselves updated with the changing nature of syllabus and academic specifics, but also other factors which are both unpredictable and unavoidable. The onset of the worldwide COVID 19 pandemic is one such, and the way it necessitated a sudden, comprehensive transition to the online modes of teaching-learning-evaluation was completely unexpected. Yet we did whatever we could and despite our infrastructural as well as financial limitations we have been running things to the best of our capabilities, and we will continue to do so. This digital calendar is a reminder of our unwavering commitment to our collective responsibility, but it doubles up as an academic calendar as well, something that would help everyone associated with our institution, including the students.

Serving the people in our capacity is serving the nation, and the democratic rights as well as privileges that we enjoy in our vibrant republic entail a host of duties that we must perform. It is this realization that we strive to actuate and instil among our dear students as well. Being an Indian is not only a matter of pride, but also a matter of profound responsibility, and the responsibility to do good is one like no other. Therefore, we will make sure that we make progress with the nation. I congratulate you all on this great day, but we have far to go yet. Jai Hind.
